JOB DESCRIPTION

- Position title: Project Officer for EU-ACCESS Project
- Directly reports to: Project Manager, EU-ACCESS Project
- Supervises: N/A
- Technically supervises: N/A
- Validity: One year
- Location: Sen Monorom Town, Mondulhiri Province

Background

The Greater Mekong Subregion (GMS) is one of the most biologically diverse and productive regions on the planet. At the heart of the region is the Eastern Plains Landscape (EPL), and WWF Cambodia's Eastern Plains Landscape programme. The EPL the program provides support to the protection and preservation of the unique landscape covering almost 6,000km², amongst to two conservation areas Srepok Wildlife Sanctuary and Phnom Prich Wildlife Sanctuary (under the Ministry of Environment). This is an area of extremely high biodiversity and cultural value but is under significant threat from a wide range of activities including the illegal trade in wildlife and timber, forest encroachment and habitat conversion, to pressures resulting from rapid and un-balanced economic development.

WWF recognizes that natural resource use and livelihood security are inextricably linked in rural areas, and that there are strong benefits to be gained when local communities are organized and engage in the use and management of natural resources sustainably. To create an enabling environment for this to happen, civil society must engage more effectively in policy dialogues regarding the management of natural resources, as well as engage with and influence private sector decision making and practices regarding the management of natural resources.

In response to the aforementioned, through EU funding on Advancing CSOs' Capacity to Enhance Sustainability Solutions (ACCESS), WWF is launching a new initiative that aims to strengthen the role and participation of Cambodian forest dependent communities in improved governance, inclusive policy dialogue, and natural resources conservation.
