Regional experts for nature protection in Slovenia

Around 35 people gathered in May in Slovenia and visited the most important parks of the only EU member country in the region. The intention of the study tour was meeting colleagues and agreeing on the future collaborations.

Dinaric Arc Parks project

WWF started the project Dinaric Arc Parks in early 2012, with the aim to create a platform of protected areas from Slovenia to Albania. The project will focus on capacity building for the employees in Parks and branding of Dinarides. This three-year project is funded by the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs and the MAVA Foundation.

Rangers need better regional collaboration

'Croatian ranger' is an association of rangers that became associated member of the worldwide ranger umbrella organization International Ranger Federation-IRF. For that reason, we talked to the president of the association, Mr. Branko Stivic.
