

A Sewage Free Baltic

The same question was asked to all companies:

Do you confirm that the passenger ships you operate do not discharge untreated sewage<sup>1</sup> in the Baltic Sea and that sewage is either properly treated on board or fully disposed at port reception facilities<sup>2</sup>?

<sup>2</sup> This confirmation should assure that all sewage is either brought ashore for treatment or effectively treated on board the ship using the best available technology – i.e. ensuring that nutrients are effectively reduced (at least 70% reduction in nitrogen and 80% reduction in phosphorus).
